Unity In The Community Foundation

Airport is now open 0 New Cases So far!

The fear of opening our borders especially to our US tourist so far is under control, zero new cases so far from our visitors. This is not a celebration yet, as we need to not let our guards down. One thing we would like to see continue maybe only on weekends (highest arrivals of visitors) the music and welcoming that was done for the first day of opening, all of our visitors should get this experience.

Rodgers Beach Pier Is Ready!

Few weeks back we were happy to announce that they were busy rebuilding one of the piers on Rodgers Beach however was not so accessible as it was still under construction, however you can now see how beautiful it is now.

Get the family together, come and enjoy our new pier and create those memories money can't buy.

Kamini's Kitchen Gives Back To San Nicolas.

In these hard times the real people who love the community always show themselves, and this is true about the owner of Kamini's Kitchens who shared out food for those who are having it hard in the community. When you see those who come out without being asked we must always support them back whenever we can, as we clearly see that they are also there for us. Thank you for caring for the community and may blessings keep raining down on you and your family..

A new mass of Saharan dust expected to affect the Caribbean and the ABC islands!

Se espera que otra masa de polvo sahariano afecte al Caribe y a las islas ABC!

A new mass of Saharan dust is currently entering the eastern Caribbean and will reach the ABC islands during Monday afternoon and lead to a gradual decrease of the air quality across the islands. This new mass will accompany us during possibly the entire week. This mass of Saharan dust will be less intense than the historic one we had a few weeks ago but stronger than most of the ones we have had after the historic one, because it is larger and somewhat denser. For today, we expect an improving air quality (will become good, green scale) due to the passage of a tropical wave, and it will remain good till Monday afternoon. Expect between a moderate (yellow scale) air quality and the unhealthy air quality for sensitive groups (orange scale) for the next several days starting tomorrow afternoon or evening. At some point, we could even reach the red scale later next week, which would be unhealthy for everyone, but we will let you know if that happens. If you suffer from respiratory problems, take this into account and limit outdoor activities.
